

RAISING RAISING THE PERFECT CHILD

Mother's Day - Raising The Perfect Child

Happy Mother's Day! Even the best moms aren't perfect. The only mom who ever raised a perfect kid even had her flaws, but moms can give us some great examples to help us be more who God made us to be.

Discussion Questions:

1. Go visit or at least call your mom if you're blessed with the ability. If not, pray for her or thank God for her.
2. Spend some time thinking about what God's taught you through your mom, even if it was with a rough relationship
3. What, specifically and generally, do you need to surrender to follow God's will for you?
4. What personal struggles or imperfections are you allowing to keep you from following Jesus?
5. In what areas of life do you still need to release control to God?
6. What is your identity? What are you allowing to define you? Sometimes it helps to think of it this way: If I didn't have or I couldn't, I wouldn't want to live or couldn't follow Jesus.
7. Think through and share some core heart characteristics which reveal more of who God made you to be. It helps to think about things that bring you great joy as well as things that bring out your anger or sadness.
